Please feel free to print a personal copy of this guide for use when reading your Boho Spirit Oracle. In fact, if you like, why not take it to your local Office Supply store and have a copy laminated for easy, spill resistant reference. I say this because I have a cat, and a bad coffee habit and we have ruined our fair share of guidebooks and cards with spills. OOOPS.

Of course this guide is also perfect to use with GoodNotes or similar software as the items are all hyperlinked for easy access.

Thank you for your understanding and for your patronage!

Welcome to the Guidebook

Hello you light filled Diviner! Welcome to the Boho Spirit Oracle Guidebook.

First, I'd like to thank you again for your support and appreciation for this creation. I genuinely hope you will find it a delight to read with as well as a useful divination tool for yourself, your friends, family, clients and passerbys.

I created the Boho Spirit Oracle and chose that particular name because I've been in a bit of a non-conformist state of being in recent years. In addition, seeking and actively pursuing total freedom of mind, body and spirit has been part of my daily ritual.

I have reached the phase of my journey now that I can appreciate more than ever the light-hearted, carefree spirit of the Boho lifestyle and more than that... the simplicity of it; which brings a new kind of freedom.

What I hope you'll find with this deck is the true embodiment of that beautiful spirit. Unique. Simple. Frugal. Adventurous. Spiritual. Connected. A Non-Conforming Explorer of 3D, 4D, 5D and beyond.

Please reach out at any time to share your experiences and explorations with the deck.

You can find me at divinationapothecary@gmail.com

Bohoste,
the Boho in me recognizes the Boho in you

The Non-Conforming Spread

I did already share that part of the Boho Spirit is to be non-conformist and carefree so, I think it only appropriate to share with you the Non-Conformist Spread... also known as the “no spread” spread; because a Boho Spirit will not be contained or restricted.

What does that mean? It means I will provide for you here some questions to explore with your deck but the pattern of placement, the art you create with the cards you cast will be entirely of your own vision. Place them randomly, put them in a mandala figure, stagger them, arc them like a rainbow, create a flower, truly anything goes. And if you feel you want more information... simply continue your conversation in a free-flowing manner and place the cards spontaneously as you develop new questions.

Here are some of the questions I used for my spread that seemed to work very well with this deck:

- What would my Boho Spirit like to express to me today?
- How can I be more rebellious?
- How am I expressing my unique spirit?
- How am I exploring the world?
- In what way could I be more free?
- What is something new I could try that would free me more?
- In what way could I become more connected and spiritually enlightened?
- What has been hidden from me that I need to know now?
- Where am I headed in my spiritual evolution?

My motto for this deck and the phrase on the altar cloth I created is: Answers are found in the space between the thoughts.

Be willing to just sit with the deck in your hands and allow your mind to wander and go silent and then just pick a card when you feel moved to do so... it's the ultimate Boho expression ;)

Activate your inner sight

What you see with your eyes may be distorted. The only way to get to the truth of the matter is to see it with your inner sight. Take a moment to connect with your intuition, activate your third eye chakra and ask for guidance.

Keywords: Intuition, Inner knowing, Metaphysical communication

Symbolism: The stars indicate your true north and guidance that is available to you. The rainbow illuminating the path to the bouquet of flowers, a gift to you from the Universe.

Balance and Harmony

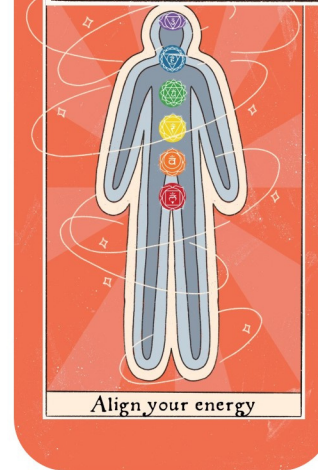

Create (or enjoy) your Zen moment. All the clutter is cleared, all the different priorities and projects are aligned and hold balance. Even if it appears that a small breath will topple all of your work; you remain centered and calm, trusting that all is right in this moment.

Keywords: peace, calm, centered, presence

Symbolism: The rocks indicate everything in life that might be weighing you down. The flower with prickly leaves, the beauty that grows from the pain and the butterfly your transformed self in this moment as you peacefully float away.

Align your energy

Are you feeling disconnected or unsure? Your energy centers are off balance in some way. Check in with your chakras and find out where you can rein in those that are too open or release those that are feeling blocked. Take note of the chakra colors that grab your attention for clues.

Keywords: life force, alignment

Symbolism: The rings are open indicating boundaries and restrictions that are within your power to release. Each star an indication of an opinion or belief outside of yourself – does it belong to you or another?

Be alert & unpredictable

Are you present or distracted? Shift your focus to the now and get ready to do something “out of the norm” for you. Same actions bring the same results, it’s time for a big change up. Watch for signs from the Universe and then BOLT! Don’t wait, shift as soon as you notice.

Keywords: awareness, shift, swiftness

Symbolism: There is one eye on the flower behind the rabbit suggesting that you keep your 3rd eye open to notice what’s going on beneath the surface. The butterfly suggests transformation from the powerful & swift action you take.

Be charming

You may not notice the snake in the vase, but it is your job to draw it out with your delightful presence. Charm the snake in your life, lure it out into the open, lull it into a place of trust, take away its power to hurt you by establishing your kind and loving boundaries and sharing your gifts.

Keywords: alchemy, enemy within

Symbolism: The snake represents complications in your life, it could be a person, a situation, a relationship. The vase represents your beautiful boundaries and the flowers the gifts you hold within. The stars all outside influences & guidance.

Be curious

Explore every experience as a possibility to enrich or nourish your life. What is the Universe trying to present to you right now? Go look, ask questions. Leave no stone unturned, but be smart about it, know when to be seen and when to simply OBSERVE the situation.

Keywords: investigate, question

Symbolism: The cat, fearless and ready to pounce on any opportunity. The diamond in place of the 3rd eye to represent the pure instinct that a cat uses to investigate and discern. The stars above are guiding you to the gift in the experience.

Brainstorm!

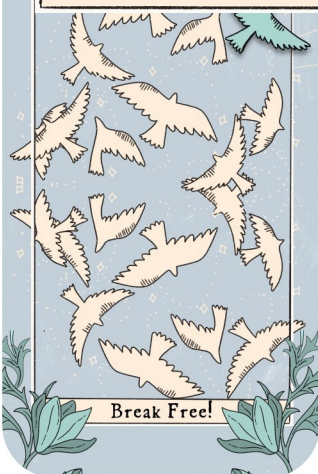

Time for an explosion of creativity and non-judgment. Examine every possibility and impossibility as an option. When you get into a zone of free-flowing thought and ideas, genius is sure to emerge. Leave no thought or instinct no matter how outrageous behind.

Keywords: conceptualize, invent, pioneer

Symbolism: The clouds represent confusion. The merkaba a key to your desire. The 2 hemispheres of the brain split wide open to allow both sides to explore what the other has to offer. The tears are a cleansing & release of fears and concerns.

Break Free!

It's okay to be different, an outlier. Take action NOW to break away and embrace your uniqueness. Group think and cultural norms have become stifling, it's time to explore new ways of being and doing. No more drama!

Keywords: freedom of thought, individualization, expansion

Symbolism: Birds in groups can tend to chirp and gossip which can cause tension and anxiety; the bluebird show strength in flying outside the frame above the others as it evolves into a new level of ascension and exploration.

Call on your guides for help

Trust me they are always trying to help you but, this time be specific with your needs and actively reach out. Your guides are with you to help you move from a place of fear and doubt to love and certainty. Not sure what to ask.. Look at what has you concerned or feeling distrust in your present life.

Keywords: divine assistance, guidance

Symbolism: The stars in the spiral are meant to represent the infinite direction and guidance available to you in the heavens. The ring around the angel is a boundary of your own making, you need only see the opening to access your help.

Careful who you trust

There may be fraud or deception in your midst, be still and silent, go within and use your instinct to discern who or what is worthy of your trust. Like the wolf, you can count on your inner circle to support you; look to the outside influence for the danger.

Keywords: discern, use your instinct

Symbolism: The moon above the 3rd eye of the wolf is there to remind you that sometimes things go bump in the night, but well-honed instincts and intuition will help you to determine that which is illusion and that which is true threat.

Cleanse and renew

There is something you've had bottled up and now that has reached its pinnacle. It is time to allow the emotional swell to release outside of the edges of the cup you've been holding it in. There's nothing like the healing feeling of releasing those tears, cleansing your soul and feeling renewed afterwards.

Keywords: emotional release, healing

Symbolism: Water is a representation of emotion and here a release of that emotion. The dove a symbol of peace and harmony. The flower is the gift of beauty you receive when you release the tears which nourish it. The cup for communion and celebration.

Comfortable in your own skin

No matter your shape, size, color, beliefs, inner or outer scars you can be vulnerable and exude beauty from every pore of your being. Shine your light so that others can see it and be led to do the same. You are a beacon for them. Thank you!

Keywords: expression, vulnerability, confidence

Symbolism: The olive branches represent you reaching out in a peaceful manner. The flowers your true essence of beauty inside and out. The stars are nuggets of guidance you have for others and the butterfly represents your attainment of transformation to this centered and light-filled soul.

Compassion & Empathy

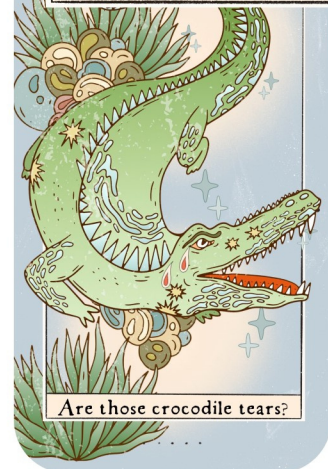

Take a moment to fully imagine yourself in the experience of another; seek to understand and relate to others. Feel into their experience. Now ask... how can I help to relive any suffering? Be present, recognize and honor their journey without judgment. Be sensitive to their needs.

Keywords: holding space, sensitivity

Symbolism: The eye here is for oneness, a singular focus on another. The tears represent the emotional release and healing that comes from listening to another. The flowers are the gift of holding space in your heart for another.

Crocodile tears?

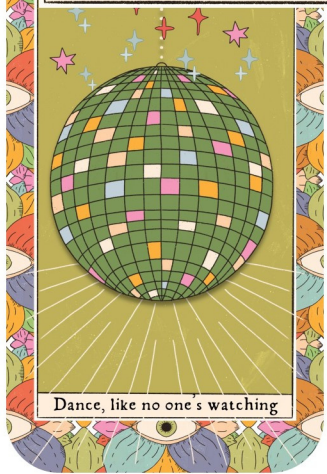

Uh oh – seems like someone be might be faking in order to get attention or cooperation. Exhibiting superficial sympathy for private gain. Where is this croc showing up in your life? Is this croc truly remorseful or just manipulating the situation.

Keywords: insincere, ulterior motive

Symbolism: The crocodile represents someone poised to eat their pray while crying about the destruction they've caused. That red tongue is here to show you that actions speak louder than words... or TEARS!

Dance, like no one's watching

Give yourself permission to “go all out!” There is no better way to get the creative energy flowing than to get the physical body moving. Shake it up, put on your favorite music and just be in the motion and movement of gratitude and joy.

Keywords: movement, creative expression, physical gratitude

Symbolism: The iconic disco ball, from a time of very eclectic, unique and sometimes underappreciated dance and fashion style. But those 70s birthed the excess, genius and musicality of the 80s!! Dance to the beat of your own drum and know that when you do, you are creating your future.

Deception is in play

Who is wearing the mask? Is it you who deceives yourself or another who deceives you? Either way you are not seeing the authenticity of the matter. This is a “check yourself before you wreck yourself” moment.

Keywords: Fraud, deception, inauthentic

Symbolism: The mask is covering the true identity of the person or situation. The fire a reminder to be cautious because it can provide warmth and light, but it can also burn.

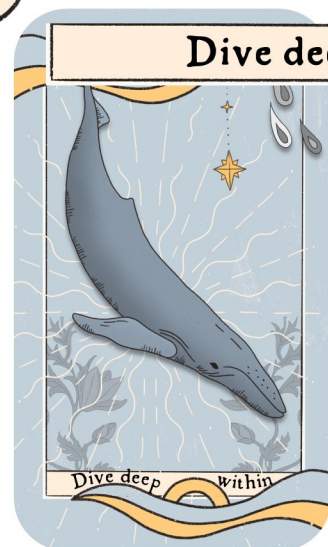

Decide. Act now.

A graceful, reclusive leopard sees clearly in the dark; with speed and intelligence lunges at its prey and carries beasts much larger than itself up to that tree for safe consumption. Like the leopard in the wild you must tap into your instinct, be secretive, think fast, identify your desire and then act on it immediately. Then, be prepared to do some heavy lifting to reach your goal.

Keywords: decisiveness, strategy, instinct

Symbolism: The leopard has 2 blue eyes and 2 extra eyes to signify the added sight it has at night in the dark. Sometimes instinct demands we “look twice” before we act decisively and fearlessly.

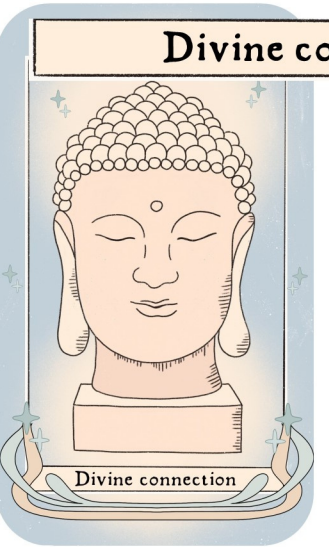

Dive deep within

What are your emotions trying to tell you? Listen with your eyes closed, feel into the rhythm of your life. Now dive deeply into your soul from childhood to past lives, generational to galactic. Where is there static in your harmonic rhythm? How can you “tune in and tune up” your life?

Keywords: emotional & soul exploration

Symbolism: The lines behind the whale signify the soundwaves by which whales navigate the dark depths. The water drops indicate bringing deep emotion to the surface. The jewel is the gift received from your emotional work.

Divine connection

It's unexplainable but you feel it, see it, hear it, sense it or know it. There is a channel of communication between you and the divine, a connection. Inspirations are being sent now directly through this channel, pay attention to the signs and symbols you notice.

Keywords: centered, present, aware

Symbolism: Buddah, “the awakened one” symbolizes discerning truth through divine connection. The white aura, the purity of energy and messaging that is emitted when you are aligned and connected and in a space of non-judgement.

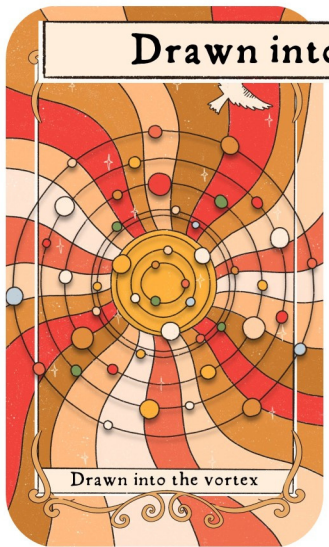

Don't take the bait

What has your attention? The shiny apple, the shiny penny? Take a bite at your own peril, sometimes things that “look good” on the surface come with poisonous consequences. Observe at a distance and be prepared to walk away. This offer is not as it seems.

Keywords: too good to be true

Symbolism: Ravens are sometimes known to foretell pain or danger in your future. They are also keenly intelligent and discerning. The apple often depicted as the forbidden fruit to be consumed at your own risk.

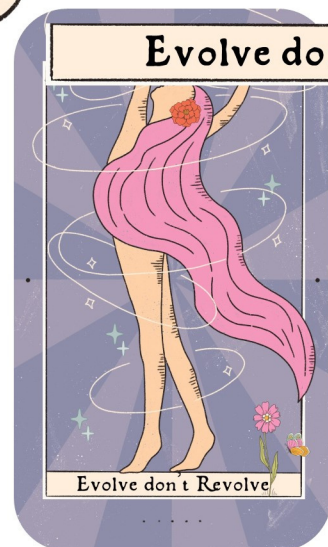

Drawn into the vortex

Can you feel the pull of the downward spiral? Each dot represents a negative or destructive situation, experience or person around you right now that is begging you to be drawn into this dark force with them. Go with the flow or soar high like the bird; it is your choice.

Keywords: negative influences

Symbolism: The spiral vortex, a whirling mass of energy that draws everything toward its center. Inescapable and destructive as it pulls all surrounding debris in with it. The bird a symbol of freedom from the pull.

Evolve don't Revolve

Not this situation again?! Ever wonder why similar patterns show up in your life experiences? Now is the time to make a different choice, even if difficult and EVOLVE rather than cycle through another revolution of the same ol' thing.

Keywords: spiritual evolution

Symbolism: The woman has her arms outstretched reaching to the heavens indicating her desire to rise to new spiritual dimensions. The flower blooms at her feet to remind her that the 3D experience bears great gifts. The stars messages from her higher self encouraging and guiding her.

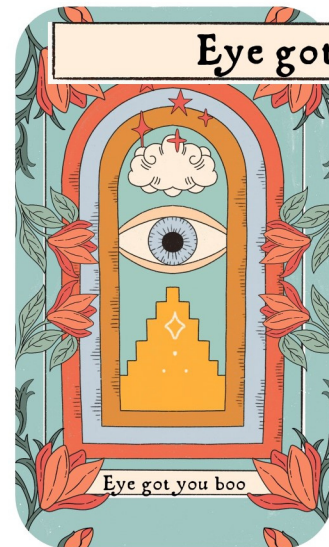

Extend the olive branch

Where there is discord in your life, be the one to offer a peaceful solution. Be the first to say, "I'm sorry", initiate compromise by giving up one of your needs for another. This is all about taking the step for the highest good of all involved.

Keywords: peace offering

Symbolism: The left hand, normally for receiving, instead plays the role of giving by offering the branch of peace to another. The branch is green and lush, dripping with stars of light meant to represent the gifts of help, hope, healing and guidance you provide another.

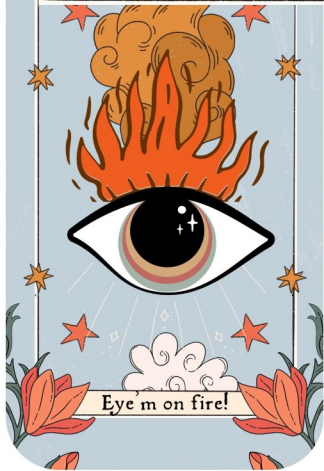

Eye got you boo

This is your 3rd eye reminding you that your higher self, your connection to the divine is always looking out for you and sending you guidance and support. If you feel uncertain or need clarity, now is the time to tune in and TRUST your intuitive connection.

Keywords: higher self, clarity through connection

Symbolism: The cloud is your uncertainty, the stars above the guidance trying to reach you, the pyramid your need to elevate and focus on your intuition for answers and support. All the flowers represent the rich gifts available to you when you connect.

Eye'm on fire

This is it you are HOT! Whatever inspiration you are working with it's on FIRE! This is a beautiful creative energy that is bound to bear fruit for you. Keep going, don't let the flames go out – pour your energy into it and turn up the heat!

Keywords: inspired, creativity, success

Symbolism: The billowing flames represent the energy of creation, the burning desires and passion for whatever idea is currently fueling you. The puff of smoke under the eye indicates that you are simply allowing any uncertainty or confusion to float away as you are guided by those stars!

Ferocious Focus

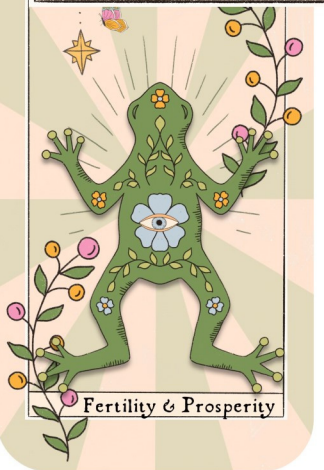

Like the tiger, spend time in solitude, planning your next steps – let nothing deter or distract you. Fiercely defend your quiet time so as not to lose focus on your end goal. Create a sacred space and allow no one to enter without your express permission.

Keywords: strategy, solitude, driven

Symbolism: The moon above the tiger's head signifies the divine feminine energy, the mother who ferociously defends her offspring as you will your creative endeavor. The star in the center her sole focus. The tiger's gaze is determined and fearless.

Fertility and Prosperity

You are very fertile right now and anything you touch can turn to prosperity. Not every idea or action will result in success but keep taking action because one of the things you are considering or creating right now is "the one"! You are pregnant with potential.

Keywords: fertile, plentiful

Symbolism: Frogs lay thousands of eggs, only a small percentage become tadpoles, another small percentage make it to frogs therefore they must be prolific and fertile to create success. The gem shows that the potential for success is already with in you, the butterfly is the transformation from thought to form.

Get to work

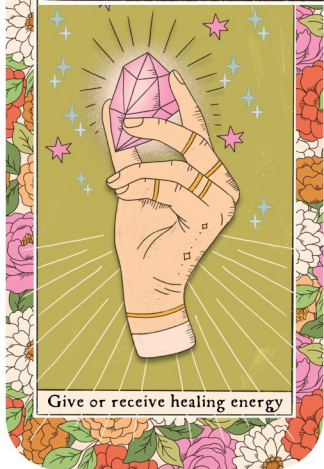

Whatever it is you are considering, it's time to put pen to paper and do the work. Bees are constantly creating abundance and sweet rewards; you too will feel the love of your community when you provide your sweet offerings for them. Abundance will be your reward.

Keywords: community, success, abundance, commitment

Symbolism: We don't call them worker bees for nothing! Bees are the connectors between the material and spiritual world, the lines all around are the broadcast to your tribe. The honeycomb represents the sacred geometry used to magically create abundance in harmony with source.

Give or receive healing energy

It is time to turn that dis-ease or discomfort into peaceful health. If you have the gift of healing, please offer it to another, if you need healing, please accept the gift from another. This may be in the form of reiki, prayer, crystal or sound therapy, consider all alternative sources of healing energy.

Keywords: healing, reiki,

Symbolism: The crystal represents the healing power of Mother Earth and all that she offers from crystals to herbs, water to fruit! The glow and lines behind the crystal and the stars are the expansion of the energy and transformation to light.

Help plant the seeds of success

It is time to be in service to others. Use your brilliant skills, wisdom and experience to help another achieve success. By doing so you help elevate the energies of your entire community.

Keywords: mentor, assist, service to others

Symbolism: The bee is our fearless pollinator, the stars the representation of the fertility and abundance being spread all around the garden from his efforts. The flower of course in bloom, willing to receive the help from the bee. It is a community effort.

Hidden influences at play

There's something you are not seeing or noticing that is influencing the situation. At first glance it appears that all is well with this cycle, but it's a cloudy night and only a crescent moon, not yet full and revealing all it's secrets. Tap into your intuition to learn more.

Keywords: unseen motives

Symbolism: The moon signifies the need for intuition – use it an you will have access to those gems of truth. The clouds represent impaired vision, uncertainty or lack of clarity. The constellations meant to represent directional clues the sky is providing to help you.

It's all energy & expression

All the “stuff” that surrounds you right now is just an expression of your energy field. You created it all and you can transmute it to any form you like. Tune in to how it feels for you – is it expanding? Revealing? Releasing? Chaotic? Organized? If you like it – lean into it, if you are feeling overwhelmed by it rein it in.

Keywords: reflection of you, energy field

Symbolism: The solar system is meant to represent the “all” we live in and experience here in 3D. The eye is your intuition perceiving the expression of your current experience. The shooting star is your expressive spark.

It's all in your head

You are living in your headspace right now. Making up scenarios that may or may not be true, thinking about it repeatedly, analyzing, preparing, planning, plotting. What you are not doing is relaxing into your creative side and feeling into the TRUTH of the matter.

Keywords: overthinking, fantasy

Symbolism: Ever feel like one thought leads to another and another and another and so on infinitely until you can't get out of your head about it? The Russian nesting doll is that representation.

It's good to stretch yourself

From Yoga or Pilates to new experiences or skills, this kitten comes to tell you it's time to stretch yourself. Expand your thinking, your creativity, your intuition, your offerings, your business. Whatever it is push yourself to be a bit more flexible and go beyond your normal bounds. Regardless of the outcome pat yourself on the back for trying – that's all that matters right now.

Keywords: a stretch, flexibility, expansion

Symbolism: The cat is a fearless creature, who cares not what others think of her behaviors. She's clever too – may or may not go for that toy above her head, regardless if she gets it or not, she will act as if that is EXACTLY what she meant to do.

It's complicated

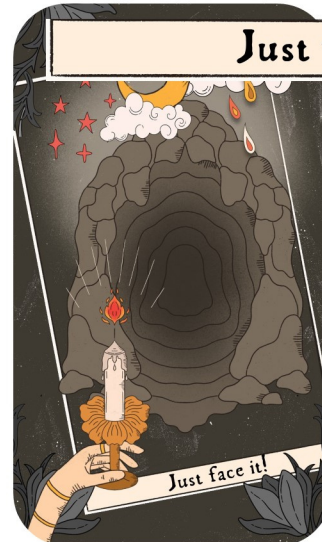

Treacherous situation ahead. Things might be taking an unexpected turn or gaining another layer of complexity. It could be a betrayal so be aware.

Keywords: difficulties, betrayal, complications, twists and turns

Symbolism: Snakes are usually alarming, but some are poisonous, and some are not, how will you find out? This one comes bearing gifts of flowers, will you be deceived? The stars are the truth of the matter being guarded by the snake.

Just face it!

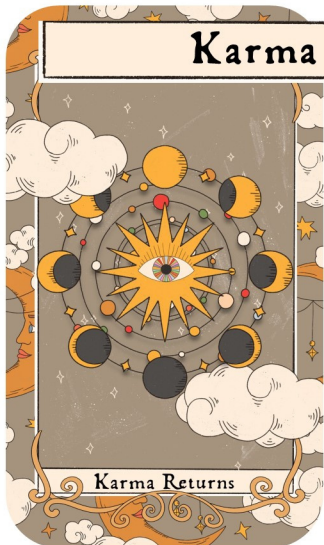

What is it you've kept in the darkness and shadows of your life? What you have kept hidden and tucked away now wishes to come forward. It is time to face that darkness, expose it to the light and when you do it dissolves, loses its power over you.

Keywords: shadow work, release, exposure

Symbolism: The cave is the known darkness you keep unexcavated. The moon in cloud cover the murky thoughts and feelings you've been having about exploring that cave. The teardrops are the healing emotional release and the stars your true north guides pulling you forward.

Karma Returns

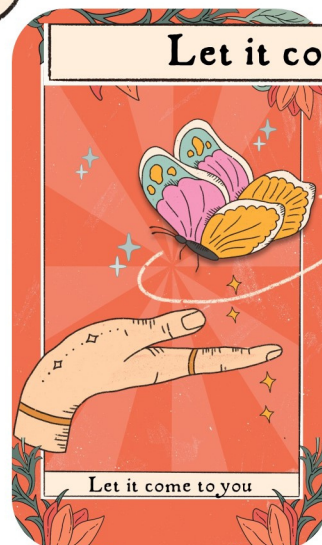

The wheels of justice are turning – what you have put out into the world now returns to you 10-fold. Just like the cycles of the moon, we can not escape justice. Will you be rewarded or challenged by karma at this time? What will you put out into the world now to have returned to you in kind?

Keywords: paying karmic debts, dharma

Symbolism: The moon cycles represent the eternal phases of the moon, what is intended on a new moon is manifest on a full moon, your reaction then leads to reflection and reset of your intentions before the next new moon.

Let it come to you

Now is a time for allowing and being passively alert and aware. If you would like to manifest something in your life, intend it, set that intention free, go about your life in gratitude and be present to recognize when you are nudged to receive. Forcing and trying are forms of resistance.

Keywords: allowing, trust, surrender, faith

Symbolism: The butterfly represents a surrender and allowing energy, it can not force itself to grow wings without cocooning, nor can you force a butterfly to sit on your hand; you can only allow the process and trust in Source.

Let them stare, you're magnetic.

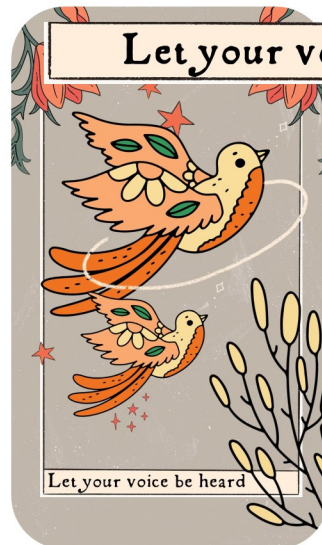

Ever feel as if all eyes are on you; yet you've don't nothing to call that attention to yourself? Know in that moment that your aura is magnetic. You are manifesting, attracting curiosity, awe and interest. Some may not know why they are drawn to you but take note that your energy field is powerful right now.

Keywords: attractive, high vibe, magnetism

Symbolism: The tiger is quiet in it's magnificence, it need to nothing but BE in order to draw your awe and attention. The glow of the light is the beacon that is your aura right now. The gems represent all the jewels you are manifesting right now. The moon a passive, creative and feminine energy.

Let your voice be heard

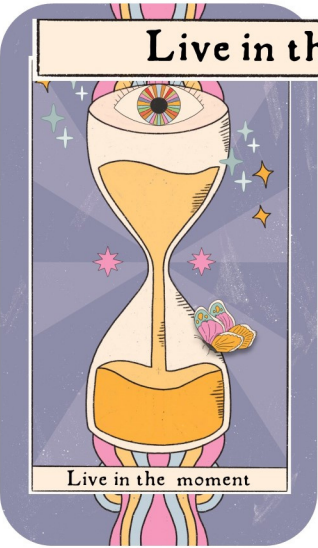

Some find the constant chirping of birds to be annoying, some find it melodic – neither preference deters the birds from sharing their message. Your voice may not please everyone, but to some it is music to their ears, life changing and appreciated. Sing loud and proud right now – someone needs to hear it.

Keywords: expression, share your perspective, speak your mind & heart

Symbolism: Birds represent freedom, connection and communication. The aura around the bird it's melodic soundwaves broadcasting to those who need and want to hear the message. The stars represent jewels of guidance.

Live in the moment

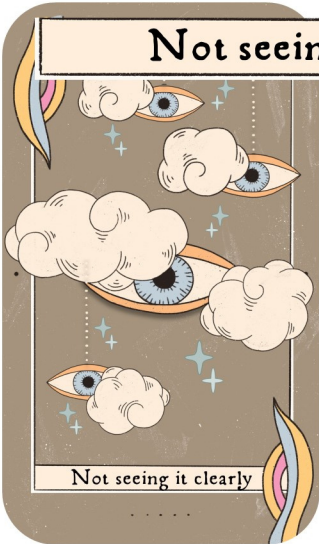

We can only live and BE in the now. But thoughts often drift to past hurts or future worries which takes us out of the present moment and into stressful energies. Time is a precious commodity often wasted by shifting focus to other timelines. Give yourself the gift of living in this moment, right now to be present to the gifts it has to offer.

Keywords: presence, awareness

Symbolism: The hourglass a symbol of the passing of time; don't be in such a hurry to finish that you miss the beauty of the flow of the sand from one vessel to another. The rainbow and eye represent the flow of divine communication available in the presence of the moment.

Not seeing it clearly

Your vision in this situation is clouded. You may be allowing emotion to get in the way of logic, facts and reason. Step out of the situation for just a moment and stand as neutral witness with no vested interest in any particular outcome.

Keywords: emotional, biased

Symbolism: Clouds represent confusion and lack of clarity. The stars are dripping from the clouds like raindrops to represent the emotion that is dripping from the clouds. The eyes are all singular in their focus, seeing 1 perspective ONLY and not taking in the peripherals.

Magic in motion

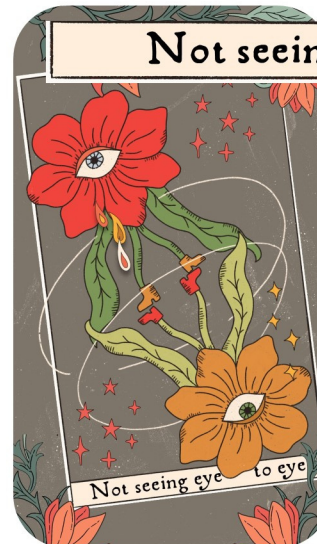

You are the magic in these cards; they mean nothing until you see, feel and interpret them. Every breath you take is witness to the miracle that you are, that your body, mind and soul are. When you are in tune with your divine systems you are truly magic in motion.

Keywords: fluid, miracle in the mundane

Symbolism: Sacred geometry in the backdrop represents the magic of our evolution; we, like nature, are geometric expressions of the divine. The crystal ball a reminder that in your hands there is a connection and messaging, in the hands of another it is a mere glass ball on a pedestal with nothing to share.

Not seeing eye to eye

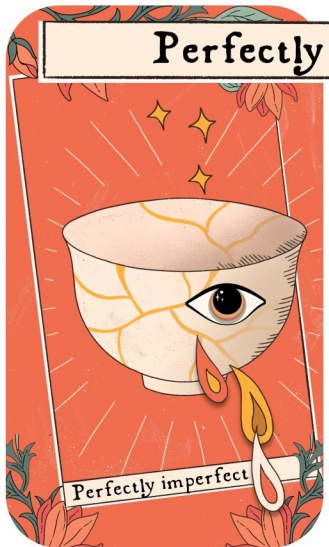

Oh dear, is this semantics or is it truly that 2 parties are on completely different sides of the subject? I'll bet if you just take a moment to focus on the commonalities you have, you'll feel your energy begin to shift. It's okay to agree to disagree but try not to walk away without an appreciation for where both have common interests.

Keywords: disagreement, divide

Symbolism: The flowers are mirror images of one another, red with orange shoes, orange with red shoes indicating that we always see a bit of ourselves in another. The stars are identical, meaning that both flowers are guided by the same passion or ideal.

Perfectly imperfect

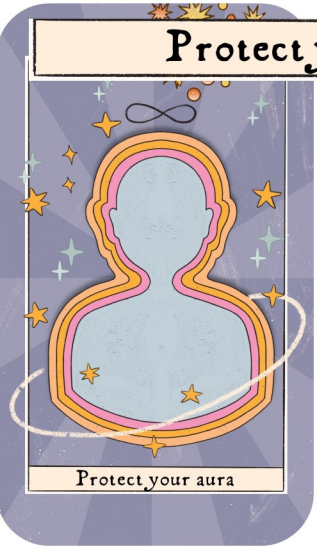

The only perfection in humankind is in its imperfection. Each unique experience, be it trauma, set back, or success molds the richness of our souls. Every shape, scar, wrinkle, fold a stroke of art by the divine to be cherished and appreciated. Embrace your uniqueness – you are art.

Keywords: perfect as is, Kintsugi

Symbolism: The Kintsugi bowl represents the tradition of treating breakage of a vessel and its repair as a rich history or herstory rather than something to discard or disguise. Each crack embellished with gold as it should be!

Protect your aura

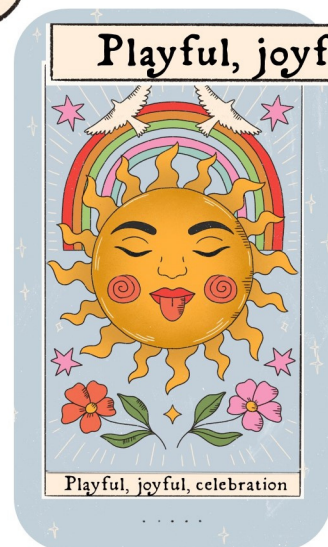

As empaths, healers and generally intuitive, compassionate beings we often allow ourselves to become drained by the toxic or wounded energy fields of others. Take care to draw your aura in closely around you and protect it in some matter be it a veil of roses, a pink crystal ball or white universal light.

Keywords: honor your space, protection

Symbolism: The ring around the aura represents the boundaries you set to protect yourself. The stars represent all the beautiful light that sparkles from you, the healing and guidance you can offer to another. The lemniscate your infinite divinity.

Playful, joyful celebration

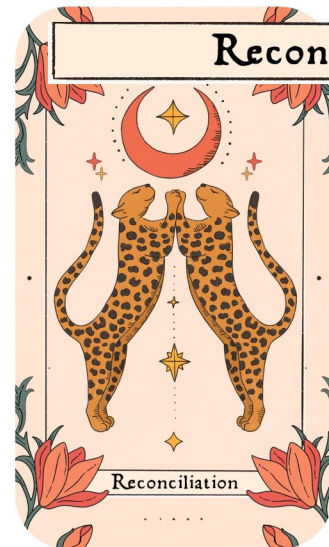

This card is nothing but pure bliss, it is the gold over the rainbow, the freshness of Spring and the nourishment of the Sun. Take this card as your perfect Spring day, renewal to be celebrated and appreciated. Go PLAY!

Keywords: celebration, renewal, vitality, positivity

Symbolism: The rainbow represents the completed communication channel between the heavens and earth. The Sun is the rich, warmth and vitality that is available to you 24/7 when you truly connect with the divine. The flowers the gift you bloom with your joy and positivity, the bird, the freedom you feel.

Reconciliation

Something in your life is calling for reconciliation. In what area have you had divide or a falling out? These beautiful cats have put their claws away to renew their partnership and work together for the highest good. It's time to make amends, forgive and strengthen the bond.

Keywords: forgiveness, reconciliation, truce

Symbolism: Cheetahs do not waste energy, they are graceful and composed, patient and strong. All elements that you will have to exhibit to renew this partnership.

Rise above it

Whatever the “storm” going on in your situation, it is time to get a new and higher perspective. Elevate your energy, find your harmonious rhythm and back away from the chaos. You are wise enough to know that engaging in this madness does not serve you nor the higher good.

Keywords: higher perspective, maturity

Symbolism: A woman meditating on a cloud represents that when you connect within you are able to gain a new perspective on the confusion or chaos. The flower represents the gift of peace that you give yourself and the butterfly the transformation that you receive from rising above the low vibe.

Rose colored glasses

Seems you are viewing the world through unrealistically optimistic eyes. It's ALWAYS good to be positive but when you allow that positivity to keep you from seeing things as they truly are... you are wearing rose colored glasses. Things are not all rainbows and kittens right now – play Devi's advocate for just a moment and see if that doesn't clear things up for you.

Keywords: unrealistic optimism

Symbolism: The flower with the eye represents the gift you have to see everything in its most beautiful light. The 2 eyes in the background are the unobstructed and more realistic view of what is truly going on.

Rise & Shine your light!

Wake yourself up! Be present and aware, open your heart and all of your senses to Mother Nature and revel in the magic of her offerings. Now be the sun – share your gifts, be warm and inviting, nurture and give vitality to yourself and others.

Keywords: vitality, awareness, expression

Symbolism: Here the sun in all its glory is burning away the clouds of confusion and spraying its rays right through them. With your awareness, and availability to others, truth is revealed. The bird is freedom to go from within to the outer world. The landscape green with the nurturing of the sun representing you helping others.

Share your magical gifts

Time to harness all your spiritual magic and cast some really good spells. Share your knowledge, your healing powers, your divination skills, your creativity, your alchemical genius with others. The more you spread the love the more that is returned to you and the more our Earth elevates its vibes!

Keywords: mentoring, spiritual share

Symbolism: The hands are open with beautiful energy pouring out of them to represent all of the bright light, love and energy that you give to the world. The ring around your hands is a reminder to share freely but also to protect and honor your boundaries, no energy vampires or freeloaders!

So close you can taste it!

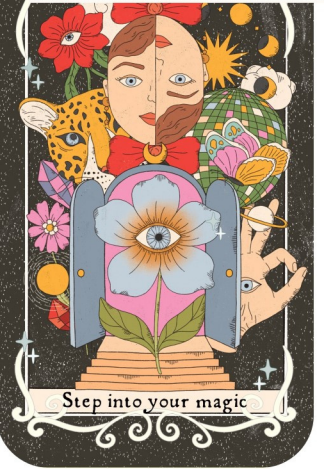

Whatever it is you've worked for, dreamed of, intended... is on its way to you NOW! Can you taste the gold at the end of this rainbow? Keep the faith, boost the gratitude, you are SO CLOSE.

Keywords: manifestation, realization, prosperity, dreams come true

Symbolism: The sun is a symbol of success, vitality and prosperity. The rainbow represents awe, joy, creativity, good luck and a shift in your vibration. The abundant garden of flowers is the fruits of all your labor, blossoming and ready to harvest.

Step into your magic

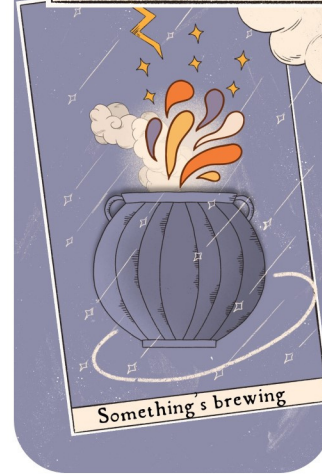

The time for doubt and self-criticism is over; it is time for you to own your magical gifts. Just take one action toward expressing your gifts and even more will be revealed to you. When you trust that you are gifted and have much to offer this world and then you step up to Source's request that you embrace it - magic comes into your life!

Keywords: embracing your talents

Symbolism: The stairs to the doorway show you greeted by a flower - when you take action (steps) to open the door to possibilities your gifts are revealed to you. It is time to open the doors and peek at what's within.

Something's brewing

There could be storms up ahead or perhaps just the chaotic feeling of big changes on the horizon. You have all the magic within in you to manage this situation.

Keywords: forewarned is forearmed, changes ahead, dramatic disruption possible

Symbolism: The cauldron is a symbol of spell casting and magic potion being brewed to be released into the ethers. Above is a clear storm with a SUDDEN change coming from the lightning strike. Changes can feel quite dramatic and disruptive... keep your aura close to you and know that forewarned is forearmed.

Tabula rasa - clean slate

Now is your chance to start over. Wipe the slate clean and get a fresh start, no judgement, no expectations, just the expectancy of the free feeling of a new, pure beginning.

Keywords: fresh start, the world is your oyster, creating from scratch

Symbolism: A clean, blank "blackboard", no chalk writing, no indoctrination or influence from "the system" - just an open field of possibilities, write, draw, create and experience you like. The bird flies unobstructed off the page to glide through the air with ease.

Take a moment to reflect

Can you see yourself clearly? Really take pause, breathe, connect and spend time in reflection. Not just on your past achievements and experiences but also on your self in the mirror. What is it you see in another? It is simply a reflection of YOU!

Keywords: self-reflection, mirroring

Symbolism: 1 eye blue and 1 eye brown; blue for the heavens and brown for the earth – this represents bridging between your higher self and your physical self. Ask your Higherself to help you to take a moment to see your own reflection.

Take care of yourself

You may be feeling stressed, confused, chaotic, overwhelmed... if so, this card asks you to make “Me Time” a priority. Do something to pamper yourself, eat well, sleep well, meditate, do some light stretching or Yoga, get a message or even do a cleanse. You need self healing right now.

Keywords: Me time, self care

Symbolism: The woman is peacefully grounded and in touch with the earth, her heart protected by her knees and arms. The large flower shows the mighty power of Mother Earth to heal, protect and help us feel grounded and connected. Pink for self love.

The answers you seek are within

If you have Shiny Penny Syndrome, move from book to book, course to course, or are conducting endless research of the facts... STOP! Your answers will not be found in books, videos, classes or anywhere else other than from within. Using your intuition, asking for the answers and then sitting in stillness and silence will reveal the answers for you. Be patient and have faith.

Keywords: inner knowing

Symbolism: The crystal ball is meant to indicate that divination may help you to draw the answers out of your subconscious and into your conscious. The Moon above is to signify your intuitive, psychic gifts and divine feminine connection.

Things aren't as they seem

In your gut you may already know this, but the situation is NOT as it appears. There is hidden pain, wounding, upset that is being masked by a smile or words that say “I’m ok” when the truth is quite the opposite. This can be people, self, or situations. If it appears that all is well make sure you are digging deeper for the truth of the matter.

Keywords: wearing a mask, pretending

Symbolism: The hand with the “okay” symbol would indicate someone (or yourself) saying to you that everything is well. The eye at the center that is crying would indicate otherwise, that the pain is being hidden so as not to burden another.

This is the end

You have reached the end of this journey. Allow yourself the time needed to assimilate this ending, be it grieving or celebration. Don't rush into something new or start thinking about how you will transform, just BE with the end and process it.

Keywords: final, completion

Symbolism: The skull represents the death/end of the physical vessel. The fire represents burning the skull to ash so that the soul may rise again as a phoenix. However, if the phoenix tries to rise before it is completely burned, it rises with a broken wing. Stay with the end until everything has been processed.

Turmoil

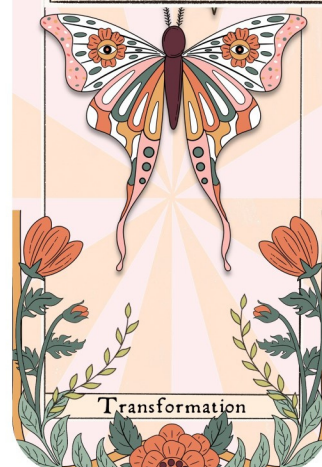

This is a powerful wave of emotion about to crack this cup wide open. Something you've been holding on to is at the precipice of overflowing. Like a dam that breaks with the powerful force of a waterfall... you are barely holding back the storm.

Keywords: extreme disquiet, restlessness, brooding, anxiety

Symbolism: A cup running over with a tsunami of emotion. This swell is already far higher than the vessel can hold, the waves have been crashing for some time now – as the tears release, it makes room for flowers to grow IF you express yourself in a healthy way.

Transformation

Ahhh – you have finally embraced your wings! Though the caterpillars may still call you to walk with them, you are transformed into a much better version and will now find your new tribe and wings.

Keywords: taking new form, new tribe, new experiences, leveling up

Symbolism: The butterfly is the transformed outcome after the caterpillar goes into and then emerges from the chrysalis. Here the powder on the wings is dry, the butterfly can communicate clearly and is rising to its new place in life.

Wisdom is earned!

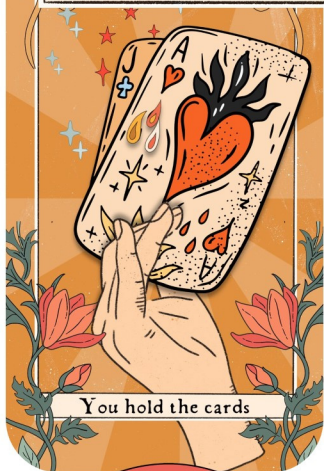

Wisdom is using your experiential knowledge, insights, and common sense to discern the truth with unbiased detachment. If you are receiving this owl it is because you are being asked to exhibit an impartial witness stance, to call upon the highest ethics and be non-judgmental.

Keywords: impartiality, detachment, discernment

Symbolism: The moon and eye represent your intuition and insight and what is intuition but where knowledge and experience meet creativity. The leaves show your fertile imagination and intuition. The owl is self-actualization, inner wisdom and inner sight – they see clearly in the dark.

You hold the cards

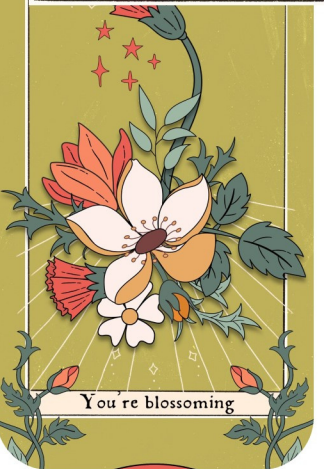

You are in control of this situation and victory is assured. You have all the power so you have the freedom and flexibility to make decisions and drive the outcome. If you are competing, interviewing for a position, trying to get a new client or contract, you will have the advantage over any other parties involved.

Keywords: self-control, advantage, power

Symbolism: The Ace of heart represents the advantage and power that comes from the Aces in playing cards but also the heart which shows you can have the power and yet still act out of love and compassion.

You're blossoming

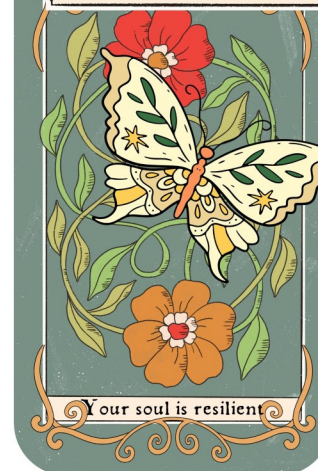

All the seeds you've planted, the nurturing and patience you've exhibited are now going to pay off! Your prosperity is taking shape and others are taking notice and enjoying the essence of your energy and offerings. This could be a new business, luck in love, new healing or health, or a financial investment that is now earning for you.

Keywords: fruits of your labor, new growth

Symbolism: The bouquet is a gift, an offering. We love to receive flowers for their beauty, fragrance and meaning. There are buds that are just coming to bloom and full flowers representing the parts of you that are new growth and the parts that are evolving into fruitful prosperous expressions.

Your soul is resilient

From childhood traumas to generational soul wounds, your essence is infinite, resilient and adaptable. You are in a constant state of evolution and even if you feel like you can't emerge more beautiful and healed than before, that is simply the Ego lying to you. You can do this; you were born for it!

Keywords: resilience, adaptability, regeneration, renewal

Symbolism: Like the butterfly, you can experience the life altering stages of transformation; from happy caterpillar, to dark night of the soul in the cocoon, to emerging in new form feeling vulnerable and having to adapt to a new tribe and skills all over again.

You're trippin'

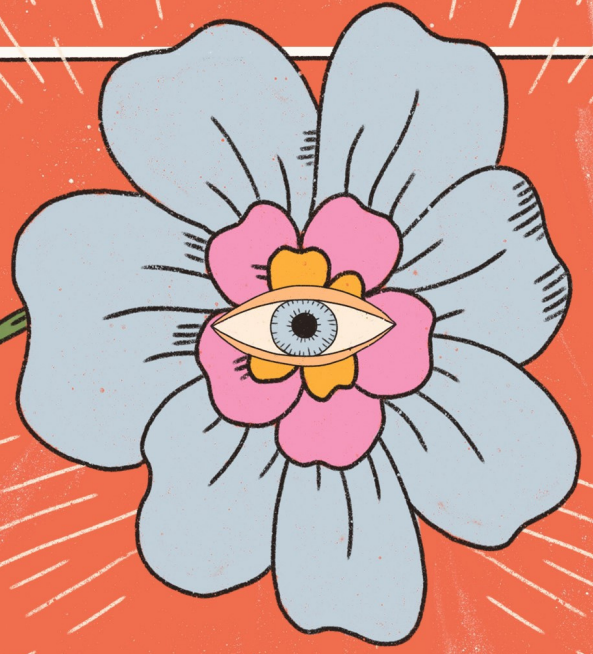

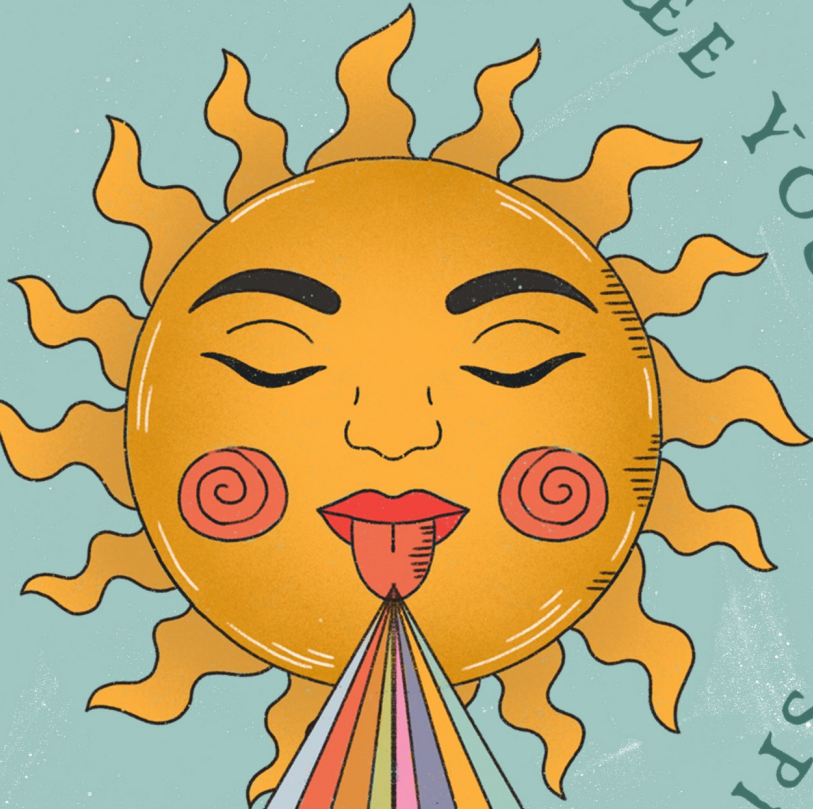

I'm afraid the mushrooms got the better of you and now you're imagining things. The way you are interpreting the situation is not rooted in reality, you are fantasizing, exaggerating, or completely making it up with no basis in truth. The good news is mushrooms can also be used for healing – turn this illusion into creative energy to see the situation in a new way.

Keywords: hallucination, illusion, delusion,

Symbolism: The mushroom is a symbol of hallucination – seeing things that aren't there. The tears represent deep emotions and the stars where the imagination is guiding you. While it is hard to see things clearly in this state it can also be a powerful catalyst for creativity and re-connection to your higher-self.
